Putnam County Fatalities Not With State Trend

Unlike a statewide trend which has been set by Hoosier motorists this year, Putnam county traffic fatalities are down from this time last year.

Indiana State Police Post in Putnamville reported that to date the total of traffic deaths in Putnam county is four in 1973, compared with six at this time last year. Total highway fatalities for Putnam county in 1972 was 12.

Indiana State Police Supt. Robert K. Konkle told his district commanders Wednesday they may have to take over criminal investigations to free troopers for highway patrol.

He said he was asking his commanders to "exercise every possible means to keep our troopers on the road."

Konkle met with district officers at the request of Gov. Otis R. Bowen in efforts to curb traffic deaths, which are running 50-60 ahead of this time last year.

The superintendent said troopers would reduce tolerance of speeders and hold motorists as close to the legal speed limit as possible. He said state police cars now unmarked would be marked with decals "for visual effect" in the hope motorists would slow down when they see more marked cars on the highway.

"We are killing more people in traffic than we are in crime or drugs. We are injuring or maiming more people in traffic than in crime or drugs," Konkle said.

He said law enforcement agencies also must reach the driving public to bring the traffic toll down. Problem areas, he said, are motorists running through intersections, improper turning and failure to yield the right-of-way at intersections.

"If we can cause them to come back driving safely, not drink while driving, yield the right-of-way to other traffic, we can reduce these fatalities."

"We're wiping out families at a time-three, four and five people in a car," Konkle said.

Jerry Vaughn Wins State FFA Office

Jerry Vaughn, a North Putnam High School graduate and representative of the North Putnam Chapter of FFA was elected Indiana State FFA Treasurer at the FFA convention held on the campus of Purdue University in Lafayette last week.

Throughout his term as treasurer, Jerry will be traveling to nearly every high school in the state which has an FFA chapter. He will also be attending various youth leadership conferences throughout the state and will be present when state winners are presented at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo. in the fall.

In explaining the list of meetings and conferences he will be attending, the new state treasurer stated, "In the next six weeks I'll have about three days off." And the year's schedule will continue in much the same manner, according to Jerry and his FFA advisor for the past three years, Harold Doremire.

Doremire stated that Jerry had moved to the North Putnam school district from Missouri with the beginning of his senior year in high school. "He just seemed to fit right in from the beginning," the advisor said.

Jerry had his first three years of experience in FFA work in Missouri. There he won honors in several judging contests and was high individual in the state heifer competition.

At North Putnam Jerry was active in several student activities and was named in "Who's Who Among American High School Students." He earned an AS degree in agriculture at Vincennes University. There he was a member of Student Senate and served as president of the University Agriculture Club.

He was named in "Who's Who In American Junior Colleges" and received the Gold Cord Award.

FFA honors which he has received include the Hoosier Farm Degree, the highest State honor given, and the distinction of seventh district Star Farmer. He has also been third in state and fifth in national FFA public speaking competition.

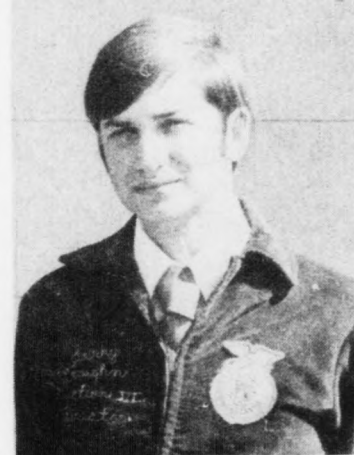

Throughout his farming career Jerry has worked in beef, swine and crops operations. He pointed out that most of his association with beef operations was in Missouri, and now most of his farming is involved with swine and crops. He handles a herd of 30 to 40 sow swine and deals primarily in soy beans and corn.

The seven state officers will be attending the Regional State Officers Conference, the State FFA Camp, the Joint Youth Officers Conference and the AIC Conference within the near future. Jerry pointed out that one of the main projects of State FFA officers is leadership training for a number of youth organizations. However, their primary interest is in high school FFA chapters.

Last year Jerry served as Section Three director for FFA. In this capacity he dealt with FFA agri-business throughout central Indiana.

Jerry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Vaughn. His sister, Darlene, is a junior at North Putnam High School.

Ski Rope Cuts Woman

Kathrine Waugh, 21, of Franklin was injured yesterday afternoon in a skiing accident at Cataract Lake in Lieber State Park.

Conservation Officer Jack Wright reported that the woman was attempting to ski without holding the ski rope. She was taken to Putnam County Hospital where she was treated and released.

Wright reported that she suffered deep cuts into the muscles of her legs.

The Putnam County Extension Homemakers installed new officers at their Officer Training Session held at the Putnam County Fairgrounds Thursday evening. About 150 homemakers attended the session. Seated are Mrs. Alva Wood, left, advisor and past president of the group, and Mrs. Don Detrow, new president. Standing from left are Mrs. Noble Fry, first vice-president; Mrs. Wendell Brattain, treasurer; and Mrs. Edgar McGaughey, secretary. Absent was Mrs. Edward Mayer, second vice-president.

Fish Fry, Music Tonight

The Putnamville Annual Fish Fry, sponsored by the Warren Township Lions Club, will be held this evening at the school grounds in Putnamville, according to Charles Cooper, publicity chairman.

Cooper said that there will be country-western entertainment beginning about 6:30 p.m.

"There will be plenty of good food and homemade pie," said Cooper. "There will also be some games and a drawing for prizes."

Serving will begin about 5 p.m. and run into the evening according to Cooper.

SUMMER HOURS:
9-5 Monday-Thursday
9-8 p.m. Friday
9-5 Saturday

The air conditioners are whirling, children are coming with beach towels under their arm, talk of vacations is in the air. Summer is underway at the library!

About 130 boys and girls are busy reading as members of the Summer Reading Club. Most of them don't know it yet, but they are going to be invited to a party in Robe-Ann Park. The library staff is planning it for July 19 from 1 to 3 p.m. More details are to be announced.

When you come in to select your summer reading there will be two more areas of interest for you to see. Edith Browning has loaned us part of her fascinating handkerchief collection for our display case. If you don't think handkerchiefs could be interesting, just try!

Anne Mancini of our staff has catalogued part of the phonograph record collection, and it's ready for you to start borrowing.

This week Lucille Lancaster and Margaret Neese attended a Reference Workshop at Turkey Run State Park. It was sponsored by the Indiana Library Association, and was designed to help librarians answer more efficiently those questions asked everyday by the patrons of public libraries. We at GPCL are intensely interested in such meetings because we are certain that they help us to serve you better.

Notice

The Democratic Women's Club will meet at the Cloverdale Community Building in Cloverdale Monday, June 25, at 8 p.m. Mildred Sandy will be serving as hostess of the month.

Robert E. Shaw, Social Security Representative from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Crawfordsville, will be the speaker. All members are urged to attend and bring along a guest.

Card Of Thanks

The family of Lillian McEvoy wishes to thank the nurses and aides at Putnam County Hospital for the wonderful care during her last stay, Dr. Ellett and Dr. Veach, our friends, relatives and neighbors for the flowers, visits and food, the Bethel Club and ladies of the Roachdale Christian Church for the meals they served, Perkins Funeral Home, Marilyn McCollough and Mary Holland, Buis Flower Shop and Rev. Health Hints

Fishhooks can cause nasty accidents if you don't know how to handle them.

The most common fishing accident is catching a barbed hook in the flesh, usually a finger or hand, but sometimes a leg or other part of the body. Lures and hooks left unprotected on a dock or on the bottom of a boat cause many of these injuries.

Keep your lures stored in the tackle box until needed, and return them promptly when removed from the leader. Be particularly careful while baiting a hook or in removing one from a slippery, wet fish.

Fly or bait casters are responsible for many hook accidents to fellow fishermen. Keep an eye on the "side-winder" who casts with a side-arm motion rather than overhead. Train yourself to look before each cast to make sure no one is in your way.

If, despite precautions, a hook becomes imbedded in your hand or finger, don't pull it out yourself. Leave it to your physician who can save further pain and damage to your flesh. He will also administer antibiotics and tetanus toxoid to prevent infection.

Navy Recruits

U.S. Navy recruiting officials responsible for Indiana announced today that the Navy will accept a limited number of individuals for three-year enlistments during the rest of June.

Persons entering the Navy for three years under the Seafarer Airman Program may be eligible for a number of benefits, the officials added. Two of them are guaranteed assignment to a ship or unit on coast of choice in the United States and guaranteed on-the-job training in the seaman, airman, or fireman fields.

Men or women who may want to enter the Navy under the Seafarer Airman Program may learn more about it by contacting Signalman First Class William R. Underwood at RM 313, P.O. Building, Terre Haute, or by calling 232-1914. There also is a toll-free number, 800-841-8000, available to interested persons 24 hours a day.

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council

An automobile air conditioner does a lot more than cool the interior of your car. Most units also dehumidify the air and filter out dirt and pollen. With the windows closed, you shut out traffic noise and keep wind from buffeting the passenger compartment when you're driving at turn-pike speeds.

But to get the most from your air conditioner, you should understand something about its operation and maintenance.

Automobile air conditioners work on the same principle as household units, but live a much harder life. The heat load on a home air conditioner is relatively constant, changing only as the position of the sun changes or clouds come and go. The unit is rigidly mounted and is driven by an electric motor at constant speed.

The air conditioner in your car has to compensate for sudden changes in heat load as you alter your course from north to east or head west into blazing late-afternoon sun. All parts of the system get a pounding as the car hits bumps and potholes. Power doesn't come from a constant-speed electric motor, but from the car's engine, which may be idling one minute and driving the car at 60 mph the next.

To ease the load on the air conditioner, open the windows for a minute or two after the car has been sitting in the hot sun. Letting trapped hot air escape will help the unit cool the interior more rapidly.

Read the owner's manual and familiarize yourself with the air conditioning controls. Many units have a position labeled "Max Cool" or "Recirc." by which cool air can be recirculated inside the car while admitting little or no outside air. It's handy for fast cooling and can also be used to eliminate outside smoke and odors. When the control is set to "Fresh Air," outside air flows in and stale air and cigarette smoke are expelled.

Your air conditioner should be checked before the hot summer weather or anytime it fails to provide adequate cooling. Your serviceman has special instruments for detecting refrigerant leakage. He'll recharge the system with fresh refrigerant if necessary. The compressor drive belt should also be adjusted or replaced. Leaves and dead insects should be removed from the condenser, which is located in front of the radiator. The drain hose should be checked to be sure that condensation drains under the car and not on the floor.

The South Putnam chapter of FFA received a superior rating at the convention, according to Bottorff. The rating was based on accomplishments made by the chapter in the past year.

Finishing fifth in the state for crop judging was the South Putnam consisting of Kevin Ogles, Mark Scott, Paul Heavin and Larry Fox. A second team has not yet received results of its judging. On this team were Gerald Yater, Dennis Wooten, Scott Bright and Dan Heavin.

"Blind Man" Wants Journalism Career

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)

— Dave Fleming, "the only blind man I know with a color TV," is out to knock down traditional barriers and get a job. Fleming, 28, and totally blind since he was 7, wants to become a news reporter or announcer on radio or TV.

"All I want is a chance," Fleming said in an interview with The Associated Press. "I think I can do the job. If I can't, the employer won't have to fire me, I'll quit."

John Snider, News director at WTTS here, says, "Fleming is a pro already. He has an eye and an ear for the good story."

Fleming has been handling news at WTTS and has read news from braille script on camera at WTTV television.

"We tape a pencil to the desk pointing at the camera," Snider said. "It gives him his orientation. He reads from his braille copy, looks at the camera and glances at his copy, just as a sighted announcer would. His hands are off camera."

Fleming studied broadcast journalism at Indiana University and for three years has been radio producer at the IU news bureau.

Until recently he felt there were implied barriers which would keep him out of commercial broadcasting, particularly the difficulty a blind person would have in handling wire service copy from a Teletype.

But then he heard about a tiny computer terminal which converts a wire service signal to braille tape. Fleming wrote the company, Triformation Systems, Inc., of West Henrietta, N. Y., and then went to the plant last February to "see" the machine. One was delivered to him last month.

"We tried it on an AP machine and for the first time, I had read wire service copy just as it came off the Teletype," Fleming said.

State Police officers assigned to the Department's public information section. Site of the camp is the Hoosier 4-H Leadership Center near West Lafayette.

In camp, delegates meet with Federal, State and local police officers; prosecutors; defense attorneys; corrections officials and other representatives from the criminal justice system. Outside the classroom there are field trips to nearby law enforcement facilities. The career orientation program is augmented by a busy sports recreation and entertainment schedule featuring Purdue University athletes enrolled in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Special Events Day signals the end of the annual career camp project with formal graduation ceremonies for all the delegates. Families and friends of the campers and the general public are invited to attend. Picnic facilities are available and special law enforcement displays and entertainment are provided for the visitors.

Career camp will host 48 girls for the special seminar June 24-27. Sixty-two college age men are enrolled in the June 27-30 program and 206 high school boys will attend the five, week-long sessions beginning July 1 and ending August 3. Special Events Day will be Saturday, August 4.

A Little Of: This And That

A gracious lady, who I have known and admired for a number of years, will be 93 years young next Tuesday, June 26th.

I am writing about Mrs. Elmer Stratton in the former mathematics teacher in a Greencastle school system for many years and who was loved and respected by her many, many pupils.

During those years, the Stratton home was located on the northwest corner of Liberty and Indiana Streets.

Mr. Stratton was associated with the J. K. Langdon and Charles Southard book store.

Mrs. Stratton is now a resident of the Kennedy Memorial Christian Home, 210 West Pike Street, Martinsville, Indiana, 46151.

I do hope some of her former students will drop her a card or even better, visit her next Tuesday.

Happy Birthday, Mrs. Stratton.

And mentioning birthdays, Lloyd Surber, courthouse custodian, will have a birthday Sunday.

I want to thank Bruce Lane for the card he sent me.

Bruce, a former state senator and a prominent resident of Bainbridge, and I have been friends for many years.

And you know, you can't have too many friends.

Thanks again, Bruce.

Mrs. Herbert Allee, Greencastle, Route 5, brought us an interesting oldtime receipt.

Her husband's father, F. M. Allee, had signed up for the Greencastle Banner Times Weekly for one dollar a year from January 1, 1896 to January 1, 1897.

W. J. Beckett was publisher of the paper at that time.

Men's Softball League Results

Moore's Bar Stuns IGA In Tenth Inning, 5-4

Moore's Bar remained unbeaten in softball action Thursday evening but they had to go to great lengths to accomplish it. Moore's made an almost impossible comeback in the bottom of the tenth inning as they scored four runs to squeak past a stubborn Greencastle IGA team, 5-4.

IGA, which played near-perfect ball against Moore's for nine innings, capitalized on three Moore's errors in the tenth to score three runs and take a 4-1 lead. After loading the bases, IGA's Ranes hit a line drive to the second baseman but he fumbled the ball and Bachelor scored from third base. Then Hammond and Anderson scored on passed balls to give the IGA team a three-run margin over Moore's.

In the bottom of the tenth, IGA retired the first two batters and seemingly had the victory sewed up. But pitcher Larry Hammond had troubles with his control and walked in three runs. Moore's Larry Bottorff then scored the winning run on a single to left field by C. Brown.

The leading hitter for Moore's was Pete Norris with three doubles and a single.

Norris also scored two runs during the game with one of them coming in the sixth inning to tie the contest at 1-1.

The winning pitcher for Moore's was Jack Allen. Allen pitched the entire game and recorded nine strikeouts while limiting IGA to only two hits. The loser for IGA was Larry Hammond.

The victory gives Moore's a 3-0 record while IGA's season mark fell to 1-3.

The Fillmore-Buis Fertilizer game that was scheduled for last Thursday night was postponed because of rain.

Tractor Pull Scheduled At "Action Track"

Terre Haute, Indiana-- "Action Track," famous USAC sprint-car raceway, will feature two sleds on two tracks on August 6 and 7, 1973 at the Grand National Tractor Pull in Terre Haute, Indiana. This class A, NTPA sanctioned pull, sponsored by the Trojan Seed Company of Olivia, Minn., will be one of the biggest events of the 1973 season. Hundreds of pullers from all over the country will be competing for a $24,000 purse.

The Grand Nationals were held last year at "Farm Fest U.S.A." in Mankato, Minnesota, which drew over 12,000 fans to the six sessions.

Order of the pull will be as follows: August 6 at 1:00 p.m.-5,000 lb. Super Stock, 5,000 Modified; 7:00 p.m. 9,000 Modified, 12,000 lb. Super Stock. August 7 at 1:00 p.m.-7,000 lb. Super Stock, 7,000 lb. Modified; 7:00 p.m.-9,000 lb. Super Stock, and 12,000 Open.

500-mile race July 1.

"The reduction in wing size was supposed to have cut speeds a bit," Rutherford said. "But look at those guys go out there. You can hardly tell the difference from Indianapolis."

"This is a reasonably safe race track, but before we get back to Indianapolis next year, something more concrete will have to be done to reduce speeds."

Rutherford won the Indianapolis pole position with a 10-mile ride at 198.413 m.p.h. And he'll be a contender for similar honors Saturday when the process of selecting 33 starters for the Schaefer 500 begins. That is, if he can build his speed a bit more.

Best practice lap Thursday was 183.577 m.p.h., far off that of the flying Unser brothers, Bobby and Al, and such notables as Mike Mosley and the recent Indianapolis winner Gordon Johncock. They whipped around with speeds in excess of 186 m.p.h.

"It doesn't worry me," Rutherford said. "I wanted the pole position at Indianapolis because it means something to a driver. In other races, however, all you need is a good start up front."

With a full day of practice remaining yesterday, 22 drivers already had exceeded 180 m.p.h. laps. That compares with only eight who qualified at that speed or better for last year's Schaefer 500.

Bobby Unser holds the Pocono qualifying record, 189.210 m.p.h. Rutherford believes a speed of 191-192 will be needed to win Saturday's No. 1 starting spot.

"We're Still Running Too Fast"—Rutherford

MOUNT POCONO Pa. (AP) — "We're still running too fast," says Johnny Rutherford. "We need to do some really serious thinking about race speeds."

Rutherford, a 35-year-old speedster from Fort Worth, Tex., watched at Pocono International Raceway Thursday as drivers tore around the 2.5 mile tri-oval at lap speeds over 185 miles an hour.

"What they did wasn't a drop in the bucket," the Texan said referring to post-Indianapolis rules changes that clipped nine inches off the rear-mounted wings of the open-cockpit, single-seater racers he and other championship drivers will wheel in the $400,000 Schaefer to reach the women's singles semifinals

Concerning the purchasing of possible retirement homesites, Thelma Thomas, vice president of the Putnam Board of Realtors offers this advice.

An old doctrine from the English common law is Caveat Emptor...let the buyer beware. What this says, and what courts have upheld for centuries is that, in a sales transaction, it is the responsibility of the buyer to determine that the item being sold is, in fact, what is being represented, and that it is fairly priced.

This hard doctrine is losing ground in this country, and buyer protection both in the written law and in court-made law, is becoming the norm. Manufacturers are discovering that courts are applying the concept of "strict liability" in cases involving defective and possibly

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

1973 Style Prodigal Son

By Merritt W. Dayton
Chaplain Indiana State Farm

Merritt W. Dayton

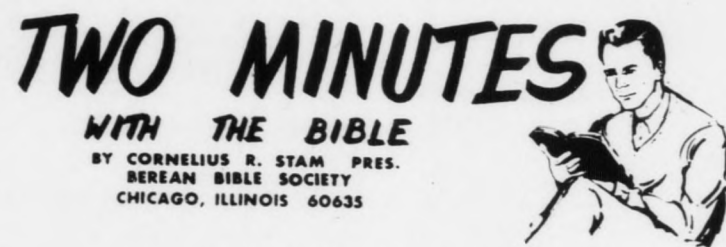

A 1973 Greencastle High School graduate said to his parents, "I'm leaving now, mainly because I'm restless and don't know who I am." So he packed some things in his knapsack and went to a far country, where he heard living was free. He never had such fun and so few responsibilities. Everyone was in his peer group and no one complained about hair length or faded blue jeans. However, the no-work principle made him bored, and the no-bath policy made him scratch. So for "kicks" he smoked "grass." But the psychological "kickback" made him morbid, insecure, afraid. To offset these phobias, he started demonstrating against the Establishment. This kind of sweat made him feel distinguished to make up for the self-respect he had lost during his "trip" away from home. To cover up his own guilt feelings and failures, he tried to make the "straight" people feel guilty by talking about their hypocrisy. But all this excitement got him nowhere except jail. His "old fogey" father got him out on bail. While cooling it at home with a bath every day, clean clothes and 3 "square" meals, he came to his senses. He said to himself, "I lost more of my personal identity with the hip crowd than if I had stayed home. Who am I? and Why am I here?" — the 12 ultimate questions have bigger question marks than ever before.

After doing a full day's work at his home, mind you—washing both cars, mowing the lawn, trimming the shrubbery, and even washing windows and cleaning up his own room—he decided to relax by reading.

He picked up a book called "Get Smart" or "How to Live their own day and they have plenty to say to us.

It can all be summed up, I believe, in these words from Jeremiah—the weeping prophet. He said to the people of his time, "Thus says the Lord: Stand by the roads and look, and ask for the ancient paths, where the good way is; and walk in it, and find rest for your souls." But the people of that day said, "We will not walk in it." What about you?

BUY THE TRUTH AND SELL IT NOT

Every true Christian should understand that the truth costs. If you don't think so, make it your own, value it, defend it, stand for it, and see if it doesn't cost. Before you are through it may cost you far more than you had thought — hours of ease and pleasure, friends and money. Yes, the truth costs. Salvation is gloriously free but the truth costs — that is if you want it for yourself. Many who know the truth won't buy it. They won't pay what it costs to say: "This is what I believe. This is my conviction." The truth isn't worth that much to them.

But God's Word urges us: "Buy the truth!" Not, "Buy it if you can get it at a bargain; if the price is not too great." No, "Buy the truth!" Buy it at any price. It's far more valuable than anything you can give in exchange for it.

And when you have bought it — "sell it not." How many, alas, have bought the truth only to sell out again. For awhile they valued and

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Was Pope Paul VI or Dr. Margaret Mead hoodwinked by the current "crisis propaganda?" Analyze the anti-establishment college youth and see if they are earning their way through school or being overly subsidized by Papa and Mamma?

"The children now love luxury; they have bad manners, contempt for authority; they show disrespect for their elders, and love to chatter in place of exercise.

"Children are now tyrants,

CASE X-542: Father Pierre is a Catholic Priest.

"Dr. Crane," he said, "I have been very much interested in the use of the current phrase, 'the generation gap.'"

"Indeed, Dr. Margaret Mead, a university anthropologist, recently accused Pope Paul VI of being 40 years out of date.

"Thus, she stated that 'His encyclicals would have been refreshing 40 years ago.'

"Dr. Crane, Dr. Mead seems to think young people now face an entirely new kind of world. "Do you think this is true?"

SAME OLD PROBLEMS

No; our youth merely reflect the usual conflict between "kept" people vs. the real "producers."

Analyze the anti-establishment youth on our college campuses and you'll find very little hostility to our "free enterprise" system among those students who are working their way through school!

And if they are out in competitive society during vacations, earning money to help pay for their winter year at the university, they have neither the time nor inclination to riot or indulge in juvenile antics of the "kept" population.

There has always been feuding between the "have nots" and the "haves."

And thousands of our teen-agers resent their feeling of insecurity that results from not being self-sufficient.

Then they indulge in buck-passing and attack the "producers" in society, including their own parents who are subsidizing their very years on the gay, luxurious campus.

But this is not a new type of friction, for read this excerpt from Page 503 in my college textbook, "Psychology Applied":

not the servants of their households.

"They no longer rise when their elders enter the room.

"They contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up the dainties at the table, cross their legs and tyrannize over their teachers."

Socrates made that analysis back about the year 400 B.C. It sounds quite up-to-date, doesn't it?

Pope Paul VI is thus not 40 years out of date!

For logic and sound psychology NEVER become outdated!

In line with the convenient modern form of "crisis propaganda," many politicians, teachers and even clergymen seem to think there is something novel about this so-called "generation gap."

There isn't!

Our luxurious American "free enterprise" system has simply allowed more parents to subsidize their teen-agers in more campus years of luxurious idleness.

Such parents are thus accessories to the nonsense of their offspring.

For nobody can evolve a sense of value and thus respect for private property, except by sweat, calluses, and often tears!

You parents must stop coddling your kiddies through high school and college.

And NEVER indulge in the unAmerican system of giving children a free allowance!

Let them work for their money!

Pay them justly and see that plenty of jobs are waiting for them, starting even in kindergarten years.

Dear Abby
Husband's counseling is way out of line

DEAR ABBY: I am jealous of my husband's secretary. It's not her fault, and it's so ironic because I was once in the same situation she's in. I'll explain.

Before I married, a church youth director started enjoying my company. He was trying to help me with some of my problems. Before I knew it, he was getting serious. He was married and had children. I don't think I consciously led him on, but I must have contributed to it or he never would have gotten serious.

I thought things were getting out of hand, so I told him I couldn't see him any more. His wife was extremely jealous, and altho words were never exchanged between us, I felt so guilty. I left the church. He kept calling me, but I never saw him again.

Now, four years later, my husband's secretary has problems, and he says he is trying to help her solve them in a Christian way. However, he's not very convincing to me, and now I'm the jealous wife. He pulled strings to get her promoted with him. He even explains HER needs to me, without realizing that I have needs, too. I need to feel that he is all mine.

How can I get over this intense jealousy so I can feel like a wife again?

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: You won't get over your intense jealousy until you are convinced you have nothing about which to be jealous. That kind of reassurance can come only from your husband. How do you figure it's not his secretary's fault that you are jealous of her? She has no business crying on your husband's shoulder. And he has no business letting her. Furthermore, why is he telling you about her "needs"?

You were wise to have told the church youth director to get lost before things got out of hand. And it took character to keep him at arm's length. His wife sensed something was wrong, just as you do. Tell your husband to knock off the counseling bit. And tell him why.

DEAR ABBY: Without commenting on the legal, moral, or social aspect of the situation, here are the facts:

My son and his girl friend, who are living together, have announced that they are going to have a baby. They are very happy about it. The girl's friends have "showered" her with gifts. As far as I know, the prospective parents have no plans to marry in the immediate future.

My question: How may I announce the birth of my first grandchild—an event I am looking forward to with great anticipation? Is there a way I can show my love and acceptance of this child—just as I love and accept my son, without seeming too inconsiderate of others who may have a strong opposition to such a situation?

NO JUDGE

DEAR NO: Don't make an official announcement. Your obvious love and acceptance of the child will speak for itself. The "others" who oppose such a situation must surely realize that you are not responsible for your son's actions.

Things A Columnist Would Never Know

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Twice as many U.S. women as men now use tension-relieving pills, a medical survey has found. But this doesn't mean that twice as many women are nervous. Men are simply more likely to take a drink than a pill when uptight.

Some scientists are worrying that air pollution by man may cause another ice age which would flatten many major cities under several hundred feet of ice. They believe the climate has been getting colder the last 30 years because air pollutants reflect the sun's heat back into space. But don't fret yourself. It would take several thousand years for the ice age to get there.

Japanese, enjoying an unprecedented rise in prosperity, are puzzled by an unexplained sharp increase of cancer. The death toll from some forms of cancer, including lung cancer, is now five times as high as it was in 1950.

Know your language: "Probably four out of five people don't know what zoonoses are. Well, they are diseases people can catch from animals—and there are dozens of them.

Folklore: A baby will be lucky if it is born at night, if it sneezes immediately after being born, if it is brushed at birth with a rabbit's foot, if it is presented a newly laid egg, a pinch of salt, and a piece of bread. A baby will be unlucky if it sees itself in a mirror before its first birthday, if the water sprinkled on its forehead during baptism is wiped off instead of being left to dry, and if its godmother is pregnant.

harmful products. Whereas it was once necessary, in a products liability case, to prove negligence before a plaintiff could successfully prosecute, the courts are now increasingly holding that if the product can be proved to be defective, the presence of negligence is not required.

This trend should prove reassuring to prospective property-buyers who are looking to distant properties as part-time or retirement homesites. As a Realtor, I have frequently been surprised at the number of people who are convinced by glowing descriptions to buy property in some apparently romantic spot without actually inspecting the property.

This is not to say that they will necessarily be disappointed, but to paraphrase an old cliché, desirability is in the eye of the beholder. As any Realtor knows, lovely cool shade to one prospect could be dank undergrowth to another. An exhilarating canyon could also be described, with equal conviction, as a dangerous, snake-infested gully.

Sight unseen, such judgments are unpredictable at best. Happily for the prospect, both enlightened management on the part of developers and laws in several jurisdictions are taking the risk out of the purchase of land in remote areas. A federal law now requires interstate land sellers to register with a federal registration office created for that purpose. It also requires disclosure of facts concerning the property, in order to protect buyers who do not inspect the property. You should be aware, though, that it does not pass judgment on the propriety of the price. Several states—California for one—also have enacted strong laws requiring full disclosure to purchasers.

As a Realtor, I am particularly pleased to see greatly increased efforts on the part of resort property developers to encourage personal inspection in their brochures and advertisements. Some offer transportation and meals, knowing their offerings are appealing and attractive and that a personal visit will bring enough sales to warrant the expense. At least one Florida land developer will not consider a sales contract closed for six months if the purchaser has not personally inspected the property.

How do you decide, then, if the resort or retirement property is really for you? Determine in advance what you can afford and what your criteria for satisfaction are. Do you need a golf course, a marina, or other sports facilities? Is the proximity of major shopping centers important to you?

Whatever your criteria, evaluate your prospective purchase in person. You may find a disappointing, unplanned and incomplete property whose developers' enthusiasm has exceeded their follow-through. Or, hopefully, you may find your dream retirement home, living up to all of the promises of the advertisements, and with promises for future development that will guarantee you many years pleasure and contentment.

Owning such property, far from the scene of your life time business and social habitat, can have its own special excitement and satisfaction.
